Dear NCC Student,

If you are like most college students today you are concerned about finding a meaningful and satisfying career and you are concerned about your future. We hope you find the Career Guide a valuable and helpful resource as you continue your academic journey, explore career opportunities, make career decisions and enter the world of work. The Career Guide is the result of a collaborative effort involving the Career Counseling Center, the Transfer Office and the Job Placement Office, all divisions of the Department of Student Personnel Services. Our mission is to assist you through the career/life planning process so that you can excel academically and in the professional field to which you aspire.

This handbook contains guidelines and suggestions about your educational and career planning as well as important information about programs and services available. We encourage and invite you to visit our offices, utilize our services, and meet with our faculty, who will be happy to respond to your individual career needs.

Finding a meaningful and satisfying career takes time, energy and effort, and it involves your active participation; so take action! Be open to new experiences and engage in a variety of experiences during your college career. Expect to make some mistakes but use them as learning experiences. Use this guide and visit us. We wish you much success in your career endeavors and look forward to helping you design your futures.

Sincerely,

Connie Egelman

A Message from the Career Counseling Center

Planning your career can be one of the most exciting and enriching times of your life. Career planning is a process that enables you to learn more about you and who you are becoming. This self-knowledge, when put together with an understanding of the world of work helps you to make informed decisions and to take action. The counselors at the Career Counseling Center can help you discover a variety of career possibilities that are appropriate for you.

Professor Connie Egelman, Professor Darren Petronella, and Professor Laura Smith

THE CAREER COUNSELING CENTER OFFERS THE FOLLOWING SERVICES AND RESOURCES TO NASSAU COMMUNITY COLLEGE STUDENTS

INDIVIDUAL CAREER COUNSELING
Counseling may involve the exploration and analysis of a student’s interests, skills, values and personality characteristics. Assistance is given in setting appropriate short and long-term career goals.

GROUP COUNSELING SESSIONS
Students are invited to sign up for special group counseling programs such as “Career Planning for the First Year Student” and “Major Choices: Connecting Majors to Careers”? Our group workshops are scheduled throughout the academic year.

FREE VOCATIONAL ASSESSMENTS AND INTERPRETATION
There are no magic answers to be found in career inventories and tests, but if you are having difficulty determining your interests, values and skills and are unsure how these may relate to specific career possibilities, you may find taking some of the career assessments available at the Career Center helpful. All NCC students also have free access to Focus2, a career planning program, located on our website, www.ncc.edu/careercounseling.

CAREER INFORMATION CENTER
Students are welcome to use the Career Information Center to conduct career research. The center contains reference materials, books on a variety of career fields, media and internet resources for career research.

CAREER CENTER WEB SITE
Can’t visit us in person? Visit us online at www.ncc.edu/careercounseling to find out about our programs, events and resources, to learn more about the career planning process, to connect with a counselor and to link to additional online resources.

CAREER RESOURCE NETWORK
One of the most effective ways to learn more about a career is to conduct an information interview with individuals working in a career field that interests you. The Career Resource Network was established to provide students with the opportunity to interview faculty and successful alumni representing a variety of career fields. Students interested in conducting an informational interview are encouraged to contact one of the career counselors for a referral. Pick up one of our Career Network Brochures for suggestions and tips on how to use the network.

ROAD TRIP NATION ARCHIVES
An online archive featuring hundreds of information interviews with career professional offering insightful and valuable career advice. To gain access, just visit The Career Counseling Center (M-14) to pick up your access code.

SERVICES FOR FACULTY – CLASSROOM PRESENTATIONS/CAREER CENTER VISITS
Faculty may arrange class visits to the center or may request classroom workshops on the following topics: career exploration, career planning and assessment, personality type and career, values clarification, and researching careers using the internet.
Debunking Common Career Myths

Having career myths or misconceptions about careers can cause you to overlook many possibilities or limit your options. How can you keep myths from derailing your career? First you need to recognize them and understand that these beliefs can interfere with or limit your ability to develop career goals and expand your options. You will need to look beyond your misconceptions and uncover the realities by gathering facts from reputable sources.

Consider the following statements.
Are they myths or realities? Read below to find out.

#1. “THERE IS ONE PERFECT JOB FOR ME.”
Myth: There are many possible careers that can be satisfying to you and make you happy. Once you have identified what your interest, skills and values are, you will find that there are a number of occupations that are potential good “fits.”

#2. “MY CAREER HAS TO MATCH MY MAJOR.”
Myth: Unless you are planning to enter a field that requires specific technical skills, most employers look for employees who possess skills and experiences that are related to the job. Most jobs don’t specify which college major is needed. One major can lead to many different careers. So, work on developing your skill set, and get involved in student activities, internships and part time/summer employment that interest you.

#3. “TAKING A CAREER ASSESSMENT OR VOCATIONAL TEST WILL TELL ME EXACTLY WHAT CAREER IS RIGHT FOR ME.”
Myth: While career assessments can provide you with valuable self knowledge and point out a variety of career options to explore, no test will provide you with a “perfect” match. It is always helpful to discuss any assessments that you take with a career counselor.

#4. “LIBERAL ARTS, HUMANITIES AND SCIENCE MAJORS ARE USUALLY UNEMPLOYABLE AFTER COLLEGE.”
Myth: These majors help students to develop very valuable “transferrable” skills in areas such as writing, communication, research, problem solving and critical thinking. These basic skills can be transferred and utilized in many different areas. Visit the Career Counseling Center to learn more about the transferrable skills you are developing and learn how to apply them to the world of work.

#5. “I NEED TO MAKE THE RIGHT CHOICE BECAUSE I WILL BE IN THIS CAREER FOR THE REST OF MY LIFE.”
Myth: Career planning is an on-going process. Over your career lifetime you will be re-evaluating your career plan several times. According to statistics, most people will change jobs 5-7 times and change their career direction 3-5 times. Think about it, many occupations that will be available in the future don’t even exist yet! Your career choice should be based on what’s best for you now, keeping in mind that you will need to evaluate and re-evaluate that career decision over time.

#6. “THE BEST PLACE TO START LOOKING FOR AN OCCUPATION IS WHERE EMPLOYERS ARE HIRING NOW.”
Myth: While job trends can be useful, they shouldn’t be the only consideration when making a career choice. Remember, that the job market fluctuates continuously due to economics, technological advances, and labor supply. Even though a field may be competitive, or may have limited openings, there are other things you can do to make yourself more marketable to an employer. To learn how to conduct a more effective job search, you can visit the Job Placement Office in Nassau Hall, room 39.

#7. “MY FAMILY, FRIENDS AND TV SHOWS ARE THE BEST SOURCES FOR CAREER ADVICE.”
Myth: While seeking advice from friends and family may be useful and learning about careers from TV may offer you certain impressions about a field, the advice and impressions can sometimes be misleading. Before you decide to pursue any career field it is important to get accurate facts and information about that field. Check out the resources at the Career Counseling Center and or speak to a career counselor to get the facts.

The Career Counseling Center can help you debunk any career myths you may have. To get started, read the section of our guide called,” Career Planning in Three Easy Steps.” Then complete the Career Party Quiz to learn more about yourself. You may also want to do additional research on careers by visiting some of the career related web sites we’ve identified in this guide. We encourage you to make an appointment with one of our counselors or to visit us in our office in Nassau Hall, room 14.
CAREER PLANNING IN 3 EASY STEPS!!

STEP 1– KNOW YOURSELF AND ENGAGE IN SELF-ASSESSMENT

This means that you need to identify your interests, strengths, work values and personality style.

ASK YOURSELF THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS

- How do I like to spend my time? What are my hobbies?
- What activities do I find fun and satisfying?
- What are my favorite subjects? In what subjects do I excel?
- What do I do well? What are my talents and skills?
- What is really important to me in a career (working with people, leadership, independence, etc.)?
- In what kind of work environment would I feel most comfortable?
- What adjectives would I use to describe myself (outgoing, quiet, artistic, competitive, organized, helpful, practical, curious, expressive, energetic, etc.)?

NEED HELP? Make an appointment to see a career counselor. You can take a vocational interest inventory, available at the Career Counseling Center or spend time working on “Focus,” a career planning internet based program available at the Career Counseling Center, Nassau Hall (M), Room 14. Consider taking SPS 102, a 3 credit elective course in Career Exploration.

STEP 2– EXPLORE THE WORLD OF WORK, RESEARCH CAREERS AND RELATED MAJORS THAT INTEREST YOU

- Take coursework that interests you or that may be related to a career field you’d like to explore.
- Visit the Career Counseling Center for information and read about the fields that interest you. Spend some time on line visiting the recommended sites suggested by the Career Counseling Center.

SOME HELPFUL RESOURCES IN OUR CENTER INCLUDE:

- The Occupational Outlook Handbook
- The Guide to Occupational Exploration
- O*Net Dictionary of Occupational Titles
- College Majors and Careers
- “Focus2,” an internet based career planning program
- Media resources, computer terminals and other career specific books on a variety of career fields
- The Road Trip Nation Video Archive

WHEN READING AND RESEARCHING, GATHER THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION

- What are the tasks, duties and responsibilities related to the work?
- What are the working conditions and work environment like?
- What kinds of employers hire people in this field?
- What kind of coursework, training, skills, licenses or certifications are required to do this work?
- What are the typical starting salaries? Are there opportunities for advancement?
- What is the job outlook?
- What other careers are related to this work?

STEP 3– TAKE ACTION

- Schedule an appointment with a career counselor at the NCC Career Counseling Center, Nassau Hall (M), Room 14, to discuss your options and to develop a plan.
- Use course electives to explore different careers and to test your skills.
- Get involved in campus activities and organizations that are related to your interests and that will help you to develop skills appropriate to your fields of interest.
- Seek part-time work, internships or volunteer experiences that will provide you with an opportunity to learn about a profession and to develop necessary skills.
- Develop your communication, self-management and technology skills. Employers seek people who can think, express themselves well orally and in writing, and who can get along well with others. Basic computer skills are a must. Employers want employees who are dependable, reliable, organized and manage their time well. Work on developing a professional image, which exudes confidence and a positive attitude. Take courses, attend workshops and get involved in activities that will help you develop these skills.
- Build your network. Interview faculty, family, community members and professionals in fields that interest you.
- Consider taking SPS 202 Career Management (3 credits) to learn about effective resume and cover letter writing, networking strategies and etiquette skills.

NEED CONTACTS? Visit the NCC Career Center to obtain contacts through our Career Resource Network.

- Stop by the Career Counseling Center, Nassau Hall (M), Room 14, to pick up a brochure to learn how the network works and to learn more about information.
- Attend career related workshops, programs and special events. Check the Career Counseling Center brochure and website for upcoming events.

REMEMBER

Be patient. Choosing a career doesn’t happen magically. It is a process that occurs over time. As you learn more about yourself and the world of work, it will become easier to identify possible career options that are meaningful and satisfying to you.

The Career Counseling Center wishes you good luck as you begin your career journey!
Take the “Career Party” Quiz

Put your interests and personality to work for you! Very often, the key to a successful career is “doing what comes naturally.” Are you a born scientist, salesperson, or teacher? To find out more about your “occupational type” and to learn how you can apply this to choosing the right career for you, complete the following quiz.

Pretend you are at a party where people with similar personalities and interests gather in small groups. Read through each group’s description and then select which group(s) is most like you.

CAREER CONFIDENCE

Employers are on the lookout for candidates who display career confidence. What is it and how can you build and express your career confidence? Read the excerpted article, courtesy of the National Association of Colleges, to find out more about this highly valued quality sought by employers. After reading the article, if you think you need help building your career confidence make sure to make an appointment to see a career counselor.

CAREER CONFIDENCE
by Kevin Gaw

In addition to the requisite skills, experiences, and organizational match being sought for a position for which a candidate is applying, most employers screen for what I call “career confidence.”

Career confidence is not self-confidence, nor is it self-assurance of one’s capabilities that they can “do the job.” (Insider tip: An instant interview red flag is when a candidate comes off as entitled, overly confident, or egotistic.) Rather, career confidence involves passion, purpose, and a realistic career plan.

Employers want to know if you care about the position and the organization to which you are applying, if you will find meaning and direction in the work, and if you have carefully thought about how the opportunity fits onto your career path. They want to know if you think the opportunity is a match with your values and if you think you will grow in the position. Bringing new employees onboard is an expensive process, and employers want to make good hiring decisions. And, you want to be hired by the right people for the opportunity that matches you.

PASSION AND PURPOSE

This phrase is tossed around a lot. Is it important? Does it really mean anything? Indeed!

Without passion and purpose in what you do, there is no meaning. And without meaning, what’s the point of a career plan?
• You do want to enjoy your work, yes?
• You do want to gain satisfaction from your effort, yes?
• You do want to feel like you are contributing and making a difference, yes?

We have all met individuals who are full of passion and purpose; they stand out because they are easy to recognize—they’re happy, engaged, energetic, and “in the flow.” They have a zest for living and for engaging in their daily work. They have a vision for their future and they express a very real sense of purpose. To actualize their career plans, to express themselves, they know how and when, what and where, and (this is essential), why.

WHAT IS “PASSION?”

Consider the following ultra-brief descriptors. It is:
• An intense, deep, and emotionally compelling feeling or desire;
• A devotion that permeates everything; and/or
• A boundless enthusiasm that consumes you.

Most of us discover and experience passion during our academic studies, often during unique classes that get us excited about some aspect of the course content. We also experience passion when we discern and discuss new ideas that make sense to us and fill us with excitement and energy.

Recognize this? Passion is that exciting internal energy that ignites our intellect, our emotions, and our sense of purpose.

WHAT IS “PURPOSE?”
• It answers the “Why is this important to me?” question; and
• It is the meaningful goal to which you aspire, the goal that is awakened when you experience passion.

The crazy part of purpose is that it is elusive to many of us because it is hidden by external messages about what success might mean. For example, many of us have been taught to value a high income over purpose as the marker of success, and in doing so, we sacrifice ourselves, our families, our friends, and our communities to an external measure, one we really do not control.

Did you know that research studies have shown happiness is positively correlated with salaries between $50K and $75K, and anything higher starts to erode that happiness? Yet many of us are still fooled by the money. Remember that very true saying: “Money doesn’t buy you love.”

Similarly, many of us have been taught to value certain professions over others, believing those professions are “better” and deliver a more fulfilling life. But what’s this? Most people change their careers several times over the course of their working lives; they are seeking an improvement when they make those changes. Have you ever experienced parental or family or community pressure “to become XYZ” when in your heart, you have always wanted to be “ABC?” Students in such situations know this predicament well. Pairing passion and purpose is essential for personal success, personal happiness, and finding the right career path that belongs to you.

PASSION + PURPOSE + CAREER PLAN = CAREER CONFIDENCE
By exploring and combining passion, purpose, and your career plan, you have created a powerful combination of career planning that make up “career confidence.”

Not only do you know what you want and how to achieve it, you also know the fundamental reasons why you want to achieve it.

Career confidence gives you the ability to adjust and tinker with your aspirations as you move forward with life.

This is a great place to be when it comes to navigating your career adventure.

WHAT’S YOUR CAREER CONFIDENCE?
1. I don’t feel confident with my career decisions and/or career plans. I feel lost and need help in deciding what to do with my major and my career.
2. I feel slightly confident of my career decisions and/or career plans. I feel confused between several options, and I need help in deciding what to do with my major and my career.
3. I feel confident of my career decisions and career plans. I know what I want to do, but I have questions about how to make it all happen. I could use some help.
4. I feel very confident of my career decisions and career plans. I know what I want to do and how to make it all happen. I may need some assistance with some skills to help me out.

THE CAREER PLAN
The career plan is a dynamic tool, designed to fit your passions and purpose. It does not lock you into a specific path but instead helps you map out possible career paths and options.

Here is the basic career plan: Go ahead and make realistic and honest response notes to the questions below. Be sure to avoid those external messages and instead, rely on your internal compass.

WHAT?
If external expectations and pressure about your career are removed, and time and resources are not an issue, what do you see yourself doing after college, or after graduate school? What sounds exciting and makes sense to you? What do you aspire toward?

WHEN?
In thinking about the above, what’s the basic timeline to achieve your career goal? (Example: To become a licensed psychologist, one must complete an undergraduate degree, advanced degree—typically a Ph.D.—a post-doctoral supervised clinical experience, and sit for two state-level professional exams, all taking 10+ years.)

HOW?
What are the steps to achieve your career goal and how are they sequenced? What things do you want or will you need to do before achieving the goal? Does this career goal require internships? Does it require undergraduate and/or graduate research experience? Does this goal require an advanced graduate degree? (Example: An aspiring school teacher will need to be admitted into a teaching program, to complete student teaching, pass certification exams, and establish connections in school districts to find employment.)

WHERE?
There are many ways and places to express your aspirations. Where do you see yourself when you achieve your career goal? (Example: Engineers can work in corporations, government agencies, nonprofits, private practice, and so forth.)

WHO?
Why does this career fit into your career identity and who you are? Why does it match your passion and your purpose? (Examples: Social worker – finds significant satisfaction and meaning in helping others in need. Medical researcher – experiences deep excitement exploring and answering health questions that will benefit humanity. Pastor – holds deep meaning in supporting others with their spiritual and community lives. Musician – expresses the connection with self and the environment when creating and playing music. Law enforcement officer – experiences purpose in being part of the community and as a person who supports the structure.)
A Message from the Job Placement Office

Today’s workplace continues to change. Increased job competition and an uncertain economy require job candidates to be well prepared and also flexible. Developing a portfolio of transferable and technical skills will help entry-level candidates, as well as experienced job seekers, to succeed. Our office provides you with lifetime job placement assistance and an online job posting service. We wish you all the best in your personal and professional lives.

Six Steps to a Successful Job Search

1. Engage in self-assessment. Identify your interests, values, personality style and preferred work environment. Define your short-term and long-term career objectives. The Career Counseling Center, located in Nassau Hall, Room 14, can help you with this step.

2. Conduct research in your prospective career. Investigate the field that you will be working in. Find out about the industry, in addition to doing company research and exploring various job titles. Use the Career Counseling Center’s research library, the NCC library and your local library. Conduct searches on the Internet and speak to people who are working in the field.

3. Prepare a resume. The Job Placement Office offers you both individualized assistance and group workshops on resume preparation.

4. Begin your job search campaign. A cover letter will need to be developed for every position to which you apply. Utilize a variety of job search methods including: classified ads, contacting employers directly, the Job Placement Office’s programs, networking (through professional organizations, social media, family, friends and faculty), temporary or permanent staffing firms, employment web sites, company home pages and career fairs.

5. Practice interviewing and then begin to interview for positions. The Job Placement Office can help to prepare you for interviewing by providing you with sample questions, mock interviews and interview workshops.

6. Follow-up. A follow-up thank you letter should be sent within a few days of having an interview. Follow-up inquiries about your candidacy are appropriate, unless the employer states that they will get back to you. Keep track of all of your job search activities.
Interview Tips
• Plan on arriving ten to fifteen minutes early.
• Practice the commute, if necessary.
• Be enthusiastic, keep a positive attitude and smile.
• Use a firm handshake when greeting and thanking the interviewer.
• Maintain strong eye contact, watch your posture and avoid vocalized pauses.
• Never answer with just a yes or no response.
• State why the answer is yes, or no. (Give a detailed explanation or provide examples.)
• Ask questions that you have prepared beforehand, based on conducting your research.
• Ask questions about what the interviewer says during the interview.
• Use the STAR technique for answering behavioral questions. (Give an example describing the Situation, Tasks, Actions and Results.)
• Don’t chew gum, eat candy or smoke cigarettes.

Questions Frequently Asked by Employers
• Can you tell me about yourself?
• How would a friend describe you?
• What is your major weakness?
• Why should we hire you?
• What are your major accomplishments?
• What is your long-term career goal?
• What is most important to you in a job?
• Do you plan on continuing your studies?

Questions to Ask Employers
• What are the main job responsibilities?
• Can you describe the departmental structure?
• How do you develop your employees?
• What are the company’s main priorities for the next few years?
• What is the budget for this department?
• Who would my supervisor be?
• How long has this position been in existence?

Interview Attire for Women
• Wear a suit with a jacket.
• Fabric quality is important.
• Conservative styles and colors are recommended for most fields.
• Wear neutral colored hosiery.
• Shoes should have a low/mid-sized heel. Dark colors and classic styles are best.

Interview Attire for Men
• Wear a suit for most positions and industries.
• Conservative styles are preferred.

• White or blue shirts are recommended, but color varies by position and industry.
• Shoes should be dark in color and conservative in style.
• Dark dress socks should be worn, not athletic socks.
• Silk ties are recommended; earrings and excessive jewelry are not.

Dress for Success Tips
• Dress to impress.
• Look professional and appropriate.
• Image is everything.
• Hair styles should be well-groomed.
• Fingernails should be clean and trimmed.
• Any cologne or perfume worn should be minimal.
• Pockets should be empty, with no bulges or coins jingling.
• Shoes should be clean and polished.
• Briefcases styles include clutch, strap or handle.
• Make sure your suit is clean and wrinkle-free. Dry cleaning is best.
• Nose rings and eyebrow rings are not recommended.

Mr. John James
Vice President
XYZ Management Incorporated
000 Garden Street
Garden City, NY 11530

Dear Mr. James:

Thank you for meeting with me yesterday to discuss the management position that is currently vacant at your company. I am highly interested in this position and hope that you will consider me as a strong candidate for it.

You mentioned that you are looking for a candidate who has managed diverse functions and has handled many different operational tasks. Over the eight years that I have been in business management, I have been successful at handling staffing, training and supervision at a company with 100+ employees. I’ve had diverse experiences that have enabled me to develop innovative approaches to management in the areas of operations and records management, office automation, budget analysis and teambuilding. Additionally, I have planned and implemented twelve different management development programs for my current firm. These programs were launched in an effort to introduce new customer service initiatives to professional staff members.

My unique combination of knowledge, skills and experience match those XYZ Management Incorporated is seeking in a candidate. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Julio Mendez

A Message from the Transfer Counseling Office...

The Transfer Office would like to welcome all students to Nassau Community College. We invite you to come to our office in Nassau Hall, Room 4A, to become acquainted with the material we have for you. We have a large selection of catalogs from four-year schools. There is a collection of reference materials, including Lovejoy's College Guide, Peterson's College Guide, and the Barron's Books. Information is also available for financial aid for transfer students.

Transfer Services

The Transfer Counseling Office provides individual and group transfer counseling for students who are interested in transferring from Nassau Community College to other institutions of higher education. We have a library for student use in the reception area that includes college catalogs, a computer, applications for local colleges and universities, (SUNY) State University of New York applications, (CUNY) City University of New York applications, and a variety of reference books, manuals, and handouts.

Useful Transfer Information

SUNY
The SUNY application fee is $50.00 per school. Nassau graduates may have this fee waived by completing the appropriate section in the SUNY application. A maximum of four fee waivers is allowed. SUNY Application Processing Center’s toll free number is 800-342-3811.
Web Site: www.suny.edu

CUNY
All applications to CUNY must be done on line. Students should go to www.cuny.edu. The CUNY transfer application fee is $70.00. CUNY applications should be sent (by the student) to: CUNY Processing Center P.O. Box 359023 Brooklyn, NY 11235
CUNY Phone number: 212-997-2869
Web site:  www.cuny.edu

Nassau’s CEEB Code is 2563.
Nassau’s SUNY Code is 61.

Transcript Requests

There are two ways in which students can order an official Nassau Community College transcript:

INTERNET REQUEST
Nassau Community College has partnered with Credentials, Inc. to accept transcript orders via the Internet through a secure site. With this service, students can:
• Order an academic transcript
• Check the status of your order
• Go to www.ncc.edu, click on the link for “transcript request” on the lower right hand side and follow steps

IN PERSON
Students may request their transcripts in person at the Office of the Registrar, located on the first floor of the C Cluster.
GUIDELINES TO FOLLOW WHEN PLANNING YOUR TRANSFER FROM NASSAU COMMUNITY COLLEGE TO A FOUR-YEAR INSTITUTION

• Explore possible colleges to attend by visiting the Transfer Counseling Office to view our collection of catalogs and information.

• Select several colleges/universities that offer programs in your area of interest and be sure to check deadlines.

• Check the costs necessary to attend each of these institutions.

• Application information for admission to the state universities, city universities, and local colleges are available in the Transfer Counseling Office, Nassau Hall, Room 4-A. You must obtain all other applications directly from the colleges to which you plan to apply.

• Upon receipt of your applications, answer all questions and return the application before the deadline. Failure to do this will jeopardize your chance of acceptance.

• Some colleges require your high school transcript and SAT scores. If this information is requested, contact your high school guidance office and have a transcript mailed to the institutions of your choice.

• Check with the Transfer Counseling Office regarding recommendations to other colleges.

• Ask the Registrar’s Office at Nassau Community College to forward your official transcript to the colleges to which you are applying.

• Check the transfer information published in the student newspaper, the Vignette. Check the calendars posted in strategic spots on campus. The calendars list the location, date, and time when representatives from other schools are scheduled to visit our campus. Calendars are available in the Transfer Office.

• Visit the Transfer Counseling Office in Nassau Hall (M), Room 4-A, for any additional transfer concerns you may have. Attend our group sessions; the sessions are held for students seeking information about the transfer process. The dates and location of these sessions are published in the Vignette and are listed on calendars posted in strategic spots around campus.

Students should look for transfer information on www.ncc.edu/transfercounseling

SUNY GENERAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS
Students who are considering a transfer to any four-year SUNY institution in any major are advised to fulfill at least 21 credits or seven of the ten categories of the SUNY General Education Requirements as a part of their Associate’s degree at Nassau Community College. Any SUNY General Education Requirement that you do not fulfill at NCC must be completed at the four-year SUNY institution to which you transfer. Following are the ten categories of the SUNY General Education Requirements

I. Mathematics II. Natural Sciences III. Social Sciences IV. American History V. Western Civilization VI. Other World Cultures VII. Humanities VIII. The Arts IX. Foreign Language X. Basic Communication
